From the Directors Desk

Adult Enrichment will be closed 7/3/15 to observe Independence Day. I hope you all have a wonderful holiday.

On July 24th AE will be hosting its very first carnival, which will include games, prizes, food, face painting and more! If you are interested in attending that day please let me know.

Photography class is asking for donations of gently used or new digital cameras. Digital cameras would allow each participant to take and edit pictures on their own camera. Each photographer will be working on developing and creating their very own portfolio and will take turns showing their work at the end of each month during class. Any help would be greatly appreciated.

JOHN ADAMS

Researched By Dewey C.

John Adams (October 30 [O.S. October 19] 1735 – July 4, 1826) was the second president of the United States (1797–1801),<sup>[2]</sup> having earlier served as the first vice president of the United States (1789–1797). An American Founding Father, Adams was a statesman, diplomat, and a leading advocate of American independence from Great Britain. Well educated, he was an Enlightenment political theorist who promoted republicanism, as well as a strong central government, and wrote prolifically about his often seminal ideas—both in published works and in letters to his wife and key adviser Abigail Adams. Throughout his life, Adams was opposed to slavery, never owned a slave, and was quite proud of the fact. After the Boston Massacre, with anti-British feelings in Boston at a boiling point, he provided a principled, controversial, and successful legal defense of the accused British soldiers, because he believed in the right to counsel and the "protect[ion] of innocence".

Adams came to prominence in the early stages of the American Revolution. A cousin of revolutionary leader Samuel Adams, John Adams was a lawyer and public figure in Boston. As a delegate from Massachusetts to the Continental Congress, Adams played a leading role in persuading Congress to declare independence. He assisted Thomas Jefferson in drafting the Declaration of Independence in 1776, and was its primary advocate in the Congress. Later, as a diplomat in Europe, he helped negotiate the eventual peace treaty with Great Britain, and was responsible for obtaining vital governmental loans from Amsterdam bankers. A political theorist and historian, Adams largely wrote the Massachusetts Constitution in 1780, which together with his earlier Thoughts on Government, influenced American political thought. One of his greatest roles was as a judge of character: in 1775, he nominated George Washington to be commander-in-chief, and 25 years later nominated John Marshall to be Chief Justice of the United States. Adams' revolutionary credentials secured him two terms as George Washington's vice president and his own election in 1796 as the second president. During his one term as president, he encountered ferocious attacks by the Jeffersonian Republicans, as well as the dominant faction in his own Federalist Party led by his bitter enemy Alexander Hamilton. Adams signed the controversial Alien and Sedition Acts, and built up the army and navy especially in the face of an undeclared naval war (called the "Quasi-War") with France, 1798–1800. The major accomplishment of his presidency was his peaceful resolution of the conflict in the face of Hamilton's opposition. Because he promoted a strong defense, Adams is "often called the father of the American Navy".

In 1800, Adams was defeated for re-election by Thomas Jefferson and retired to Massachusetts. He later resumed his friendship with Jefferson. He and his wife founded an accomplished family line of politicians, diplomats, and historians now referred to as the Adams political family. Adams was the father of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States. His achievements have received greater recognition in modern times, though his contributions were not initially as celebrated as those of other Founders. Adams was the first U.S. president to reside in the executive mansion that eventually became known as the White House.

JULY BIRTHDAY FLOWER

The July flower is Larkspur

Researched and typed

By Ekaterina G.

Native to the North Temperature Zone, Larkspur is a genus of ranunculaceous delphinium plants with bright flowers and spurred calyx and symbolizes feelings of an open heart and ardent attachment.

The term delphinium is believed to come from the Greek word for dolphin as the plant was thought to have a resemblance to the sea mammal.

Folklore reveals a number of names for this flower including lark's heel, lark's toe, lark's claw, knight's spur and staggerweed.

Traditionally used as a herbal medicine, larkspur was believed to consolidate wounds which is supported by the Latin name for the plant 'consolida' which means 'to consolidate.'

In Greek mythology larkspur sprang up from the blood of Alex after he killed himself following a temper tantrum resulting in an act of dishonour when he did not receive Achilles' armour. Soldiers were also said to use larkspur in ancient times as a method to control body lice.

Other healing uses that have been connected to the larkspur include the treatment of hemorrhoids, colic in children and wound repair.

Larkspur was also said to have had magical powers as it carries feminine energy. In addition to healing wounds and combating lice, larkspur was used with any spell related to the protection, care and comfort of soldiers and other figures of authority. It has also been known to be used in ceremonies honoring the war dead. Documentation points to larkspur assisting in keeping away ghosts, scorpions and various other poisonous creatures (Cunningham's Encyclopedia of Magical Herbs) and if planted around a home it would keep away bad spirits. Wearing larkspur also brings these benefits.

It has been used in many protection spells in Europe and one belief is that if bunches of the flower are hung in a stable, it would prevent the animals from being attacked by a predator or from being stolen.

THE NEW BUILDING

By the Newsletter Crew

Typed by Ekaterina G.

In our new building every room has a wall that is a different color. The bathrooms are aplenty. We have two large lunch rooms with windows. The windows even open. We have an office in every room except the music room. We are right behind WGAL. It's more like a house, it even has a backyard! We are going to have gardening club on Thursdays to make our yard prettier. The participants all seem to like it better here and it feels more cheerful with its bright colors. The new place is more comfortable, it has nice big open rooms. Our fire alarms here at our new building are louder. We love our new building!

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Contributed by Jonathan Whitlock

Independence Day is a day that commemorates the nation's pursuit of freedom, beginning in 1776. In an effort to recreate the commotion that occurred in the skies by the rockets and bombs, fireworks and other explosions are often set off in a stirring visual and audio show. The display is always engineered to recreate the sense of commotion that was prevalent in the Revolutionary War. This, in turn, should instill a sense of awe within the spectators, leading to a reverence of the memory of the soldiers that perished. In turn, the spectators should look at the freedoms they daily enjoy, with an inflated sense of gratitude to those that perished in the war.

BIG FLOWERS

Contributed by
Zack F. and Robert P.
Typed by Ekaterina G.

We made the flowers with sticks and crepe paper. We made leaves for the flowers. It took a lot of work. It took about 2 or 3 classes to complete. We had a pattern for the leaves and petals. It was hard because we had to gently cut the patterns out. We used a lot of different colors. We glued the petals onto the stick. We wined floral tape around the sticks to make them look like stems. We used them for the spring show. They were on the stage on both sides. I would like to take the flowers home with me.

WHAT WE LEARNED FROM PLAYING BUDGET CITY

Contributed by
ILS Class

Budget City is a money game that teaches you how to budget your money. We don't use real money, but it's very convincing! The object of the game is to get rich. The winner is the one who has the most money at the end. Just because you're first doesn't mean you win.

Is the purpose of life to get rich as well? The ILS class recently had a discussion about this. Here are some of their thoughts:

Jon R: I don't think so.

Dewey: Define rich. Rich enough to have the things you need in life.

Jon W: The purpose of life is happiness and to make others happy. Money can be a means by which we accomplish that goal.

Ekaterina: It's what people are worth to you.

Ralph: I want a stereo, so I have an account that I put in a little each month until I have enough.

Ally: I pay every other month for me and my brother to get pedicures. I love it!

Annette: So, in summary, we appreciate that we have enough money to not have to worry about being poor or being rich.

What else did we learn from playing this game?

Victor: Responsibility. We had bills to pay, so we had to learn how to write checks. I also learned how to count bills and not just coins. I never learned how to do that growing up.

Gloria: I learned not to trust people who work in a bank, especially if his name is Dakota. Always count your money before you leave the teller.

Angie: I also learned responsibility and how to be on my own without anyone assisting. I also learned responsibility as I helped out the banker.

Leroy: I learned about teamwork since we were paired up. Dewey and I discussed what we were going to do at our turn before we did it.

Ally: That's like real life. My cousin Jenny and her new husband work together as well.

Steph: I got to use my calculator skills – how to add and subtract. I also learned how to separate and organize the money. And I learned about direct deposit.

Dewey: That's kind of like money you don't see until you need it.

Ben: Ally and I tried to pay our big rent bill first, but we learned to look in our checkbook first to make sure we had enough money to cover it.

Did you enjoy playing the game? YES! Why?

Wil: Because I love money.

Kathy: Because you learn to count money and write checks in a fun way.

The Muppet Show Singers

by Laura, Jonathan, & Jon R

Typed by Ekaterina G.

All the Thursday participants, except brain-games people, performed in the concert. We had an excellent director, Annette (who played Big Bird). Similarly, we had a very slimy main character, Kermit the Frog (played by Jonathan Whitlock). We'd been working on the show since January, when the theme was first conceived.

"It was crazy," insightfully commented Animal (played by Jon R.).

It was performed at the LDS Stake Center on June 4th, at 11:00 am. It was a lot of work, yet it was enriching. The show couldn't have gone on without Amparo, who made the costumes for our lovely cast, or Dakota, who made our props. Nor could it have happened without our gracious audience. The food was good; pasta, salad, & bread. We offer thanks to the food servers, Rebecca, Beth, & D'Andrea. It was a smash hit! "It was Muppetational!" said Floyd (Laura Sauder). Make sure you don't miss our next concert at Christmas!

VACATION

Contributed By
Robert, Derek, Gloria and Wilfredo
Typed by Dan R.

If we could travel anywhere in the world some of the places would be, to a cottage in Ohio, a hotel at Virginia Beach, Ocean City, MD, and the Delaware beaches. We like these places because some of us remember going there as children. Gloria said that her best memory from the shore is walking along the beach looking for shells. Wilfredo said he likes to eat Chinese food on vacation. Robert P. likes to ride bicycles on the boardwalk in Wildwood, NJ. Derek said that the best part of his trip to Maryland is the cabin he stays in with his family. Everyone agreed that the best part of taking a vacation is getting away to a new place.

MUPPET SHOW AUDIENCE

Contributed By Newsletter class

It was very good! "Kathy S. did a great job as Beaker" said Susie C. Wilfredo said, "it was wonderful!" Wil enjoyed handing out the programs for the show to the audience. Listening to the singing of the songs was also a crowd favorite. Ralph the dog was another favorite and the costume was so soft. The singers enthusiasm was contagious and the audience enjoyed themselves, sometimes having a hard time stop laughing. We are all looking forward to the entertainment of Adult Enrichment's next concert, our much enjoyed Christmas concert. Ho Ho Ho!!!!!!!!!!!!
